DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

A. The species of First embodiment drawn to an alignment layer surface dividing into a plurality of regions, each of the plurality of regions including a plurality of pixel units with orientation of said alignment layers in adjacent said region being different (claims 1-9).

B. The species of Second embodiment drawn to an alignment layer surface dividing into a plurality of regions having different orientation directions, a first ratio of areas of two regions of said plurality of regions in a first pixel being different from a second ratio of areas of said two regions of said plurality of region in a second pixel (claims 10-12)

C. The species of Third embodiment drawn to an image formed in said liquid crystal layer by said driving circuit display at a front direction and a fixed image independent of said driving circuit display at an oblique direction (claims 13-17).

D. The species of Fourth embodiment drawn to an image formed in said liquid crystal layer by said driving circuit display at a first direction normal to said liquid crystal layer (not front) and a fixed image independent of said driving circuit display at second direction (claims 18 and 20-25).

E. The species of Fifth embodiment drawn to a first liquid crystal layer display an image determined by a driving circuit and a second liquid crystal layer (claim 19).

These limitations have not disclosed in original specification.

F. The species of Sixth embodiment drawn to a method comprising steps of orienting a first portion of first substrate in a first direction, orienting a second portion of first substrate in a second direction and driving a liquid crystal layer with driving circuit to form an image (claim 26-30). These limitations are conventional art of multi-domains of liquid crystal display.

G. The species of First embodiment drawn to a liquid crystal display comprising at least two portions each including a different means (different driving circuits) for aligning an orientation of a liquid crystal layer sandwiched by said respective portion (claims 31).

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, there is no generic claim.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims and any drawings readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement is traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to HOAN C. NGUYEN whose telephone number is (703) 306-0472.
